

A Culture of Peace Café and Silent Auction

Inviting Families to Dialogue and Cook for Reversing Climate Change, Nonviolence, Respect, Inclusiveness and Solidarity

Co-sponsored by the First Unitarian Peace Group and the Center for Global Community and World Law

Tuesday, December 4, 2007; 5:30-8:30 pm

First Unitarian Church,

90 Main Street, (State Street Entrance) Worcester

Bring food and drink for a community meal. RSVP to Virginia Swain by December 2, 508-753-41723 ext 3 or vswain@centerglobalcommunitylaw.org

Silent Auction 5:30-6:30: Donations welcome from men for auction including dinners, hors d'oeuvres, desserts. Donations delivered after Auction to highest bidder. Proceeds will benefit The Emerging Leaders Program offering immigrant and refugee teens an opportunity to develop healthy behaviors through expressive arts, education and group process. Join men volunteers who have agreed to donate food for the Silent Auction: Noah Bombard, Worcester Magazine; Tom Crowley, DSS Lawyer; Juan Gomez, Centros Las Americas. Jay Lavelle, Cook Extraordinaire; Ngorge Kumau, Criminal Lawyer, David Spanagel, Professor, WPI, DeJongh Wells, The W Group.

See realmencook.org for more information.

Culture of Peace Café 6:30-8:30: Bring an open heart, your family (children over 8 welcome with parent supervision) and friends to meet and dialogue with one another on what matters to you about reversing climate change, nonviolence, solidarity, inclusivity and respect. The Culture of Peace Café is one of the integral parts of the three-year Initiative to encourage active dialogue and community building (see www.theworldcafe.com). Michael Halperin, Director of Customer Service Excellent at Fallon Clinic and Virginia Swain, Director, Institute for Global Leadership and Center for Global Community and World Law, Facilitators. Mike and Virginia have been facilitating Cafes through the Worcester Learning Group, a professional association for Greater Worcester change agents, www.learninggroup.org/worcester.htm.

For information about other events, to become a member, donate or volunteer with the Three-Year Culture of Peace Initiative, visit www.centerglobalcommunitylaw.org. A freewill offering will be available for those who would like to contribute.

